Supplementary Agreement – Desert Eagle .50 AE Experience

Supplement to the participation form / liability waiver – please read in full and sign before starting.

Participant details

Surname, first name:

Date of birth:

Date of participation:

Session / time:

1. Course concept and planned progression

The Desert Eagle .50 AE Experience is designed as a supervised shooting experience with a step-by-step progression. The planned sequence for each participant is:

- 25 rounds of .22 LR – fundamentals and safe firearm handling
- 20 rounds of 9 mm – applying the fundamentals to a more powerful calibre
- 10 rounds of .357 Magnum – further progression and preparation for .50 AE
- 5 rounds of .50 AE with the Desert Eagle – planned final stage / highlight

These round counts describe the planned course sequence and are not guaranteed minimum quantities. The actual sequence may vary for safety and training reasons.

2. Approval for each calibre stage

Progression to the next calibre stage requires approval from the range safety officer. The deciding factor is the participant's actual safe handling during the course.

- safe and controlled holding and handling of the firearm
- reliable and immediate compliance with safety instructions
- adequate control of the firearm being used and its recoil
- overall safe completion of the next calibre stage as assessed by the range safety officer

3. Returning to a smaller calibre and further training

If a higher calibre stage is not approved, or if safe handling is no longer sufficiently assured during a stage, the range safety officer may return to a suitable smaller calibre at any time.

This expressly includes returning to .22 LR to reinforce fundamentals such as stance, trigger control and safe firearm handling. The range safety officer decides which calibre and round count are suitable for the remainder of the course, taking account of safety, training progress and the remaining course time.

4. Special notice concerning the Desert Eagle .50 AE

Shooting the Desert Eagle .50 AE is the planned final stage of the course, but cannot be guaranteed for safety reasons. Approval is given solely by the range safety officer and only if safe handling appears to be assured in the specific circumstances.

- Approval may be withdrawn at any time, and shooting at a higher calibre stage may be stopped if safe handling or control of the firearm is no longer sufficiently assured.
- If a higher calibre stage is not undertaken or is not completed, the remaining course time will be used for supervised shooting and training with one or more suitable smaller calibres. This may include returning to .22 LR if necessary.
- At the participant's request, a higher calibre stage may also be omitted and shooting continued with a suitable smaller calibre.
- This alternative course sequence forms part of the booked experience. There is no entitlement to a particular calibre stage, a specific number of rounds with the Desert Eagle .50 AE or a partial refund where approval is withheld for safety reasons.

5. Particular risks and personal responsibility

The participant understands that shooting – particularly with powerful calibres such as .357 Magnum and .50 AE – involves particular physical demands and risks, even with expert supervision and compliance with safety rules. These include, in particular, strong recoil, unexpected firearm movements, and ejected or rebounding cartridge cases.

Approval of a calibre stage by the range safety officer is solely an assessment of safe handling in the specific circumstances at that particular time. It does not guarantee that the participant can fully control the firearm with every shot or will remain free from injury. In particular, approval does not constitute an assurance of risk-free use.

The participant must immediately follow all instructions concerning stance, grip, how the firearm is held and its handling, and must promptly inform the range safety officer of any uncertainty or physical impairment.

In the event of injuries resulting from handling that deviates from instructions, inadequate control or the participant's own misconduct, the applicable statutory liability rules apply. Any contributory responsibility depends on the circumstances of the individual case. The statutory liability of the organiser and the range safety officer remains unaffected.

6. Participant confirmation

I confirm that the step-by-step progression has been explained to me and that each higher calibre stage – in particular the Desert Eagle .50 AE – may only be undertaken with the approval of the range safety officer.

I understand that approval may be withdrawn at any time for safety reasons. If a higher stage is not undertaken or is not completed, the remaining course time will be continued with suitable smaller calibres, including .22 LR again if necessary. This alternative course sequence forms part of the booked experience.

I confirm that I have been informed of the particular physical demands and risks, especially strong recoil and ejected or rebounding cartridge cases. I understand that approval is solely an assessment of safe handling in the specific circumstances at that particular time and does not guarantee an injury-free experience.
